Internal Promotion Creates New General Manager Role At HeadCount Services

Published 5th July 2006

The board of directors at TeamSpirit Holdings Ltd, which own TeamSpirit Software and HeadCount Services, have announced the internal promotion of David Pooley as general manager for HeadCount Services.

David, 52, originally joined the Selven Group in 1999 as Client Services Manager – Selven was subsequently bought by TeamSpirit Holdings in 2004. As client services manager, David was responsible for managing a team of 14 to deliver consistently high quality client service to over 500 TeamSpirit clients, with payrolls ranging from 80 to 50,000 employees.

For the new role of general manager for HeadCount Services, David will be responsible for driving the strategy of aggressive growth for HeadCount through geographic and services portfolio expansion.

Commenting on the appointment, David Pooley said:

"I am delighted with this new challenge. HeadCount Services is a fast growing, ambitious company with a great team. We look forward to growing our services portfolio from the very strong base that we have built up for managed payroll service provision, underpinned by TeamSpirit software."

Nick Parker, group chief executive officer, TeamSpirit Holdings Ltd, commented:

"We have every confidence in David succeeding in this new position. He has delivered excellent service to TeamSpirit clients, and his understanding of our software and of client requirements places him in a strong position to drive even greater growth for HeadCount."
